

March 2023 update for Radius Capital Management

PERFORMANCE AT A GLANCE

Portfolio/Index	March Return	YTD Return To 3/31/2023
U.S. Stock Benchmark (Vanguard S&P 500 Index Fund)	3.7%	7.5%
Radius 100 (100% stock mutual funds)	1.9%	2.4%
Radius Index 100 (100% stock ETFs)	1.0%	4.3%
Balanced Risk (multi-asset risk parity portfolio)*	4.1%	6.2%
Radius Bond (100% bond mutual funds)	0.2%	0.7%
Radius Index Bond (100% bond ETFs)	2.2%	2.4%
Bond Benchmark (Vanguard Total Bond Index Fund)	2.6%	3.2%

* This strategy invests in "hard" assets (commodities, gold, and real estate) as well as stocks and bonds. It is designed to be an alternative to the common 60% stock, 40% bond portfolio.

US investors were rattled in March by the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank, and concerns surrounding the financial sector in general hit bank stocks and bonds hard. The strong response from the Fed of a 25bps rate hike – as well as cooler inflation and positive growth data – resulted in the overall S&P 500 ending up 3.7% last month. It's interesting to note, however, that Large Value Stocks declined 0.5% in March while Large Growth stocks gained a whopping 7.8%. The Radius and Index stock portfolios underperformed their benchmarks during the month due to their more conservative overweight positions in Value and Value-Growth Blend funds. With Growth stocks looking expensive relative to their long-term PE (price to earnings) ratios, we remain wary of jumping onto that bandwagon at this time. The bond portion of the Radius portfolios struggled in March due to one of the mutual fund holdings' overweight position in (normally stable) bank sector bonds. The bond market is currently pricing in no more interest-rate hikes this year and is even predicting some rate cuts as soon as September 2023.

While the worst appears to be behind us, economic data continue to be mixed, and we remain cautious regarding our approach to investing at this time. We recommend that investors remain prudent. Attempting to "time the market" is seldom a successful strategy and we would not recommend you do so. The best way to protect from long-term investment declines is to diversify one's investments across multiple, uncorrelated asset classes and investment strategies.

MARKET CHARACTERISTICS

Stock market volatility [§]	Average (monthly avg. = 22, month end = 19)
Business Cycle Phase	Late Cycle
Dominant Investment Style (active vs. passive)	Mixed

[§] In general, the higher the market volatility (as measured by the CBOE Volatility Index or VIX), the more the market is driven by investor emotions (greed and fear). Lower market volatility indicates a market environment based on fundamentals (economic growth, corporate earnings, etc.). The long-term average for the VIX is 20, 30 is considered high, 40 very high, and 50+ extreme.

LONG-TERM PERFORMANCE THROUGH 3/31/2023

The longer-term performance of the Radius portfolios continues to be strong. Since inception (1/1/2001), the Radius 100 portfolio has generated a net cumulative return of +387% (7.4% annualized) vs. a cumulative return of +368% (7.2% annualized) for the benchmark S&P 500 – with a comparable level of risk (i.e., standard deviation of monthly returns, maximum drawdown, and beta). Over the same time period, the more conservative Radius 60 (60% stock mutual fund, 40% bond mutual fund) portfolio grew +277% (6.2% annualized) vs. a +268% return (6.0% annualized) for its benchmark (60% S&P 500 Stock Index and 40% Total Bond Index).

Footnotes:

- ¹ Investment return numbers for the Radius 100 and Radius Bond reflect the (unaudited) performance of actual portfolios that have been invested since 1/2001.
- ² Returns for the Index portfolios prior to 8/2014 and Balanced Risk prior to 4/2015 are back-tested and not actual returns of accounts managed by Radius. Back-tested (simulated) performance results have certain inherent limitations. Unlike an actual performance record, simulated results do not represent actual trading. Also, since the trades have not actually been executed, the results may have under- or over-compensated for the impact, if any, of certain market factors, such as lack of liquidity. Simulated investment strategies in general are also subject to the fact that they are designed with the benefit of hindsight. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown.
