

January 2024 update for Radius Capital Management

PERFORMANCE AT A GLANCE

Portfolio/Index	January Return	YTD Return To 1/31/2024
Radius 100 (100% stock mutual funds)	0.1%	0.1%
Radius Index 100 (100% stock ETFs)	1.6%	1.6%
U.S. Stock Benchmark (Vanguard S&P 500 Index Fund)	1.7%	1.7%
Balanced Risk (multi-asset risk parity portfolio) *	-0.6%	-0.6%
Radius Bond (100% bond mutual funds)	-0.1%	-0.1%
Radius Index Bond (100% bond ETFs)	-0.5%	-0.5%
Bond Benchmark (Vanguard Total Bond Index Fund)	-0.2%	-0.2%

* This strategy invests in “hard” assets (commodities, gold, and real estate) as well as stocks and bonds. It is designed to be an alternative to the common 60% stock, 40% bond portfolio.

Performance across the various asset classes varied in January. Strong employment and GDP data, coupled with explicit statements from the Federal Reserve (the Fed) in their January meeting that a March cut seemed unlikely resulted in a less positive environment for bonds. The Vanguard Total Bond Benchmark fell 0.2% for the month, with Long Term Treasuries down 2.2% for the month. Stocks were mixed as the “Magnificent Seven” (Alphabet, Amazon, Apple, Meta, Microsoft, Nvidia, and Tesla) continued to outperform the rest of the market after stronger than expected earnings data (the exception was Tesla that fell 24.6% on the back of management concerns). Five of these stocks (excluding Apple and Tesla) were responsible for a staggering 98% of the index’s gains in January. Of the 500 stocks in the S&P only 224 gained during the month. Mid and Small Cap stocks fared poorly in January and were down 1.5% and 2.6% respectively. The actively managed Radius 100 portfolio held up well during the month returning 0.1% despite its diversifying positions in US Small Cap and International Stocks. The passive Index Portfolio continued to perform in line with its target benchmark, the S&P 500, and gained 1.6%. The view that central banks have reached the peak of their tightening cycles continues to support higher stock and bond prices going forward. While economic indicators and company balance sheets look resilient, we are, as a team, cautious in our approach to investing and favor solid fundamentals and quality assets. We recommend that investors remain prudent and maintain their targeted investment allocations.

MARKET CHARACTERISTICS

Stock market volatility [§]	Low (monthly avg. = 13, month end = 14)
Business Cycle Phase	Late Cycle
Dominant Investment Style (active vs. passive)	Passive

[§] In general, the higher the market volatility (as measured by the CBOE Volatility Index or VIX), the more the market is driven by investor emotions (greed and fear). Lower market volatility indicates a market environment based on fundamentals (economic growth, corporate earnings, etc.). The long-term average for the VIX is 20, 30 is considered high, 40 very high, and 50+ extreme.

Footnotes:

¹ Investment return numbers for the Radius 100 and Radius Bond reflect the (unaudited) performance of actual portfolios that have been invested since 1/2001.

² Returns for the Index portfolios prior to 8/2014 and Balanced Risk prior to 4/2015 are back-tested and not actual returns of accounts managed by Radius. Back-tested (simulated) performance results have certain inherent limitations. Unlike an actual performance record, simulated results do not represent actual trading. Also, since the trades have not actually been executed, the results may have under- or over-compensated for the impact, if any, of certain market factors, such as lack of liquidity. Simulated investment strategies in general are also subject to the fact that they are designed with the benefit of hindsight. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown.
