

April 2024 update for Radius Capital Management

PERFORMANCE AT A GLANCE

Portfolio/Index	April Return	YTD Return To 4/30/2024
Radius 100 (100% stock ETFs)	-3.9%	1.0%
Radius Index 100 (100% stock ETFs)	-4.2%	4.3%
U.S. Stock Benchmark (Vanguard S&P 500 Index Fund)	-4.1%	6.0%
Balanced Risk (multi-asset risk parity portfolio) *	-2.0%	2.0%
Radius Bond (100% bond ETFs)	-1.1%	-0.6%
Radius Index Bond (100% bond ETFs)	-1.6%	-1.7%
Bond Benchmark (Vanguard Total Bond Index Fund)	-2.4%	-3.2%

* This strategy invests in "hard" assets (commodities, gold, and real estate) as well as stocks and bonds. It is designed to be an alternative to the common 60% stock, 40% bond portfolio

April was a tough month for both stocks and bonds. A combination of a weaker-than-expected first quarter GDP numbers and new economic data signaling that inflation may stay higher for longer fueled market fears that the Federal Reserve Bank (the "Fed") will not ease interest rates as quickly as previously hoped. Both stock and bond markets responded negatively, with the Vanguard Total Bond Index falling 2.4% over the month while the S&P 500 fell 4.1%. So far in May, however, the stock market has made up almost all the ground it lost in April, and the bond market has recovered more than half of its April decline. The actively managed Radius 100 portfolio performed slightly better than the S&P 500 in April and fell only 3.9% for the month, while the passive Index Portfolio saw a decline of 4.2%. The Balanced Risk portfolio had a comparatively better month as commodities rose, losing only 2% during the month of April. The Radius bond portfolios continue to outperform the bond benchmark, with the Radius Bond down just 1.1% in April and the Radius Index Bond declining 1.6%.

We remain generally cautious in our approach to investing and favor solid fundamentals and quality assets when looking at investment opportunities for our clients. We advise investors to remain prudent and maintain their targeted investment allocations.

MARKET CHARACTERISTICS

Stock market volatility [§]	Low (monthly avg. = 16, month end = 16)
Business Cycle Phase	Late Cycle
Dominant Investment Style (active vs. passive)	Passive

[§] In general, the higher the market volatility (as measured by the CBOE Volatility Index or VIX), the more the market is driven by investor emotions (greed and fear). Lower market volatility indicates a market environment based on fundamentals (economic growth, corporate earnings, etc.). The long-term average for the VIX is 20, 30 is considered high, 40 very high, and 50+ extreme.

Footnotes:

¹ Investment return numbers for the Radius 100 and Radius Bond reflect the (unaudited) performance of actual portfolios that have been invested since 1/2001.

² Returns for the Index portfolios prior to 8/2014 and Balanced Risk prior to 4/2015 are back-tested and not actual returns of accounts managed by Radius. Back-tested (simulated) performance results have certain inherent limitations. Unlike an actual performance record, simulated results do not represent actual trading. Also, since the trades have not actually been executed, the results may have under- or over-compensated for the impact, if any, of certain market factors, such as lack of liquidity. Simulated investment strategies in general are also subject to the fact that they are designed with the benefit of hindsight. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown.
